Workshop Description:

As one of the most popular ways for teachers, students, and the general public to communicate, Twitter is becoming a must-have tool in almost every teacher's toolbox. Twitter gives new opportunities to teach digital citizenship and connect to other learning communities and new educational content. During this workshop, participants will learn how to utilize Twitter in their classrooms... from informing parents of the events of the school day to interacting with students all over the world. We will spend our day learning the basics of Twitter and how to get students engaged with your classroom Twitter page. We will also participate in a Twitter chat and learn ways to grow our professional learning network.

Presenter: Stephanie High

Stephanie High has eleven years of classroom experience teaching second graders at Prairie Elementary. She has a Bachelor of Science in Education from Emporia State University and a Master's of Arts in Education from Friends University. In addition to her teaching responsibilities, Stephanie spends her free time creating and selling teaching materials on Teachers Pay Teachers as well as connecting with other teachers through Twitter & other social media sites. She has a passion for exploring different ways to engage students in learning.
