Workshop Description:

Help!!! My student doesn't speak English (or not very well). This is the place to be. During this workshop, participants will learn about technology and scaffolds that will help support non-English and limited English speakers. We will cover family communication and apps that support language translation. Participants will also learn about Google extensions that support language learning to improve instruction in the classroom. Finally, we'll address simple scaffolds that allow other language learners to access content and differentiation with the English Language Proficiency Standards. You will leave with strategies and tools you can use the next day in your classroom to help you meet the needs of English Language Learners.

Presenter: Ashley Zoglmann

Ashley Zoglmann has worked with students in grades PreK - 5 in a variety of settings including Title One Reading Teacher, Classroom Instructor and Independent Tutor. She is the current ESOL Coordinator for Haysville USD 261 as well as a Certified Reading Specialist. She received her Bachelor of Arts in Elementary Education from Wichita State University and her Master's in Education: Reading Specialist/Curriculum and Instruction from Newman University where she also completed her Building Leadership work. Ashley has experience as a District Trainer and enjoys the learning that can happen when educators share their knowledge and collaborate.
