

Cancer And Specified Disease Insurance

Heart & Stroke Insurance

When cancer, heart attack or other dreaded diseases strike, the related costs can be devastating to a family's income. While health insurance coverage will cover medically related cost, it does not cover unrelated costs such as loss of income, travel and lodging, time off for spouse or other family member caregivers.

Cancer and specified disease and heart and stroke insurance coverage is available under your Sec. 125 plan. These plans pay directly to the insured to offset medically related costs that might not be paid by your health insurance.

We represent two major companies in this area with competitively priced products and broad selection in the make up of coverage offered.

AIG (American International Companies) offers cancer and specified disease coverage and heart and stroke coverage. Allstate Financial (American Heritage Life) offers cancer and specified disease coverage and heart and stroke coverage. Both companies are well recognized names in the insurance industry.
