Substitute teachers should report for duty (30) minutes before school is in session.

- A substitute teacher should be able to report as soon as possible to the school (within one hour after being called). Punctuality is especially important.
- A substitute teacher may be called to serve one full day or multiple days. The minimum length of time will be a ½ day. In counting days taught under the substitute teacher certificate, for purposes of determining the validity of this particular certificate, teaching any part of, or all of, the day shall count as one day.
- Substitute teachers must report to the principal's office upon arriving at the school. They must sign in with the secretary or principal in the office.

- A substitute teacher must remain on duty until the duties outlined by the principal have been completed.
- A substitute teacher assigned to a secondary school should report at the regularly designated time even though the teacher might have a first hour plan. Likewise, the substitute should remain at the school until the end of the day should the teacher have plan the last hour. Substitutes are available to the school during planning periods. The principal may request the supervision of students or help in other ways.

Cell phone use is not permitted anytime you are responsible for supervising students, during classroom time and when you are outside monitoring students.

It is important for all substitutes to remember that student information is confidential and should not be shared with anyone other than those individuals working directly with the student.

Expectations as a Substitute:

- Substitutes have the same overall responsibilities as a regular teacher. Appearance counts so please dress appropriately for the classroom.
- Check the “duty” list to see if the teacher for whom you are substituting is assigned to the cafeteria, hall, or other duties. Consult the office for any changes which might occur in those particular buildings regarding duties.
- Check the regular teacher’s mailbox for materials which may apply to the day’s activities.
- Check the room schedule.
- Take the attendance and carry out the policy of the school in reporting it. Attendance should strictly be done by the Substitute Teacher and not by a student.
- Supervise students at all times.
- Direct any outsider seeking information about a student, or requesting permission to take a student from the room, to the office.
- Be familiar with emergency drills and the assigned exit.
- Hold as confidential any material or knowledge concerning the school (teachers, students, parents, principal, etc.) you gain while in a particular building. Student records that are available to substitute teachers are personal in nature and their contents must be treated as privileged communication. Student “records” are not to be discussed outside the confines of the school. Confidentiality is an extremely important component of the law. There are many Federal laws and state statutes that protect the privacy of educational records. The main Federal law pertaining to student records is the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA). Information or records falling under this law must remain confidential. Significant penalties can occur from failure to comply with the privacy act. Many school staff fail to realize that even conversations with non-school personnel or school personnel without educational involvement with a specific child can be a violation of this act. Information and records covered under this act may include but are not limited to: · Personal and family data · Evaluation and test data · Psychological, medical, and anecdotal reports · Records of school achievement and progress reports · Disability information · Copies of correspondence concerning student · Records of conferences with students and/or parents · Other personal data discussing specific facts about the students with whom you work is a violation of the students' confidentiality rights.

- Appropriate classroom management is an important aim in teaching which requires patience, understanding, and review of all the facts. The Haysville schools utilize Positive Behavior Support and Interventions (PBIS) as a guide for dealing appropriately with students' behavior. PBIS begins by teaching expectations and by reinforcing students for following those expectations. Punishment is used sparingly and not as the first line of defense. Good conditions for learning are a direct result of positive classroom management. Be consistent, emphasize the positive, maintain a clear, pleasant voice; be sympathetic and understanding. Kids may be testing the substitute...be ready to pass the test.

Before Checking Out:

- See that all things are properly cared for before leaving, such as; the room is in order—windows closed, lights out, visual aids are as they were, bulletin boards are left the way the regular teacher had them, and the classroom is in order.
- Leave a note to the regular teacher either on Absence Management (formerly Aesop) or clipped to the plan book. This should be in brief form telling her/him what transpired while she/he was absent. It should tell to what extent the plans of the regular teacher were followed. You will be issued a review sheet; this form should be completed and returned to the principal's office.
- Check papers done during the day.
- Report to the principal regarding returning the next day. If he/she is not available, be sure to check with the secretary. Turn in any keys.

What to Expect from Teachers:

- a. the class attendance slip
- b. all teacher manuals and answer keys/books
- c. current seating charts or names on the desks
- d. current schedule for the day and week
- e. plan book with detailed lesson plans including material needed

FOR OFFERING YOUR KNOWLEDGE AND TALENTS TO THE STUDENTS OF THE HAYSVILLE SCHOOLS.

BLOODBORNE PATHOGENS

As sure as the sun comes up every day, children end up with scraped knees, cuts and bruises. Students of all ages hurt themselves on the playground, in the classroom and on the playing field. As a professional in our educational system you need to be aware of the potential danger of bloodborne pathogens and to understand the dangers of infection and the safe procedures to minimize risk.

Unfortunately, students are not immune to bloodborne disease.

There are many diseases carried by blood. The most common are the hepatitis B virus (HBV), hepatitis C virus (HCV) and the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV).

Hepatitis means “inflammation of the liver.” The hepatitis b virus poses a greater risk to you at school than either hepatitis C or the HIV virus, since it is more easily transmitted. Fortunately, a vaccine can prevent HBV infection.

HBV, HCV, and HIV and other pathogens may be present in blood and other materials, such as:

- Body fluids containing visible blood
- Semen and vaginal secretions
- Torn or loose skin.

Bloodborne pathogens can cause infection by entering your body in a variety of ways, including:

- Open cuts
- Nicks
- Skin abrasions
- Dermatitis
- Acne
- The mucous membranes of your mouth, eyes or nose.

You can become infected by accidentally injuring yourself with a sharp object that is contaminated. Sharp objects may be:

- Broken glass
- Sharp metal
- Needles
- Knives
- Exposed ends of the orthodontic wires.

Bloodborne diseases can also be transmitted indirectly. This happens when you touch an object or surface contaminated with blood or other infectious materials and transfer the infection.

Contaminated surfaces are a major cause of the spread of hepatitis. HBV can survive on environmental surfaces dried and at room temperatures for at least one week.

There are many people who carry infectious disease having no visible symptoms and no knowledge of their condition. HIV, HCV and HBV can infect anyone.

THE KEYS TO PREVENTING INFECTION ARE:

- Understanding the dangers you face.
- Knowing how to protect yourself.

PROTECTING YOURSELF:

Handwashing is one of the most effective ways to protect yourself.

Handwashing keeps you from transferring contamination from your hands to other areas of your body or other surfaces you may contact later.

Where handwashing facilities are not available, wash with an antiseptic hand cleanser or antiseptic towelettes.

If skin or mucous membranes come in direct contact with blood, wash or flush the area with water as soon as possible.

Gloves are the most widely used and basic form of personal protective equipment. You must wear gloves when it is reasonably anticipated that you may have hand contact with:

- Blood
- Any potentially infectious materials
- Mucous membranes or non intact skin.

When using gloves, wash hands after removing them.

One of the best ways to protect yourself from hepatitis B infection is to have the vaccination.

Protecting yourself from bloodborne diseases on the job requires knowing the facts and taking sensible precautions.

Standard precautions require that you consider every person, all blood and most body fluids to be potentially infectious. Potentially infectious waste to be disposed of by custodial staff.
